Board of Health With Government Officials Take Prompt Action

That every effort should be made to stamp out the epidemic of grip and acting upon the advice of government officials all public places have been closed until further notice. Mayor Ladd called a meeting of the Board of Health this noon and an order was issued closing the schools, theatres, churches, dance halls and lodges. The formal notice is as follows:

By direction of the Mayor, the Board of Health today ordered all public gatherings discontinued, such as schools, churches, moving picture shows, dance halls etc.

Formal instructions were issued to the responsible parties by the Board and full cooperation was promised. This action will affect also all social and benevolent orders and associations and will be in effect until further notice.

The Mayor and Health Department have taken this step in order to take advantage early of all possible benefits that arise from preventing as far as possible promiscuous gatherings.

COMPLAINS AMERICAN TREATMENT

(By Associated Press)
Amsterdam, Sept. 25.—Count Von Huertling, the German Imperial Chancellor, in addressing the Reichstag main committee complained of the lack of attention his acquiescence in the 4 points laid down by President Wilson as peace essentials had met from the American executive. He declared that he favored the formation of a League of Nations, universal successive disarmament in equal proportion, the freedom of the seas and the protection of small nations.

Portsmouth Harbor as an export harbor was considered today when the Exports Control Committee of the United States came here by special train to inspect Portsmouth harbor. It was a great day in many respects to have the invitation accepted and to have an opportunity to show these gentlemen the wonderful opportunities of the section. The fleet harbor on the Atlantic coast, never freezes, with plenty of room for extension.

The committee was shown the wonderful lower harbor and the opportunity of docks at Kittery Point and New Castle.

Portsmouth would be several hundred miles nearer European ports and shipments from the West via White River Junction, Newport, Intervale, and via Worcester and Nashua would open up lines that are not congested. The expense of development would be very slight compared with the tremendous cost at some of the larger ports.

The distinguished party arrived here by special train and were met by Admiral C. J. Bouché and staff, members of the Chamber of Commerce, officials of the L. H. Shattuck Inc., Atlantic Corporation. The tour about Portsmouth was in charge of Maj. F. W. Hartford and the committee approved a schedule of 2 1/2 hours to their inspection. They made it known that no time would be spent in any reception and their time would be spent entirely in looking over Portsmouth as to its value to the government.

The party was met at the station by Mayor S. T. Ladd, President F. M. Sise of the Chamber of Commerce, Colonel H. C. Taylor, Vice President R. C. Margeson, R. L. Costello, Gustave Peyser, John K. Bates, Rear Admiral C. J. Bouché, U. S. N.; Commander A. C. Almy, U. S. N.; President J. H. Shattuck, Vice President Robert Jackson, President Arthur A. Sharpe, General Manager H. C. Raynes of the Atlantic Corporation.

There were also present in the party members of the New Hampshire Manufacturers' Association and President A. B. Jenks of the State Board of Trade.

The party was escorted to the big plant of the Frank Jones Brewing Co., where it was pointed out as a fine storage for export food stuffs. The size and adaptability of the plant made a strong impression. Data of the property was filed.

Governor Sends Greeting.

Concord, Sept. 25, 12:20 p. m.
Gen. George W. Goethals and Members of Export Trade Commission, Care Major F. W. Hartford, Portsmouth, N. H.:

"I am very sorry that I cannot be in Portsmouth today in person to join in her welcome of her distinguished visitors and to voice New Hampshire's desire for Federal government assistance in developing what we are convinced is a great potential asset of state and nation, the port of Portsmouth. In behalf of the state I ask your careful attention for the possibilities inherent in Portsmouth because of its location, and I assure you of the desire of New Hampshire to co-operate in their utilization.

"HENRY W. KIBYES,

"Governor."
Upon arrival at the L. H. Shattuck shipyard the commission was met by President L. H. Shattuck, Vice President Robert Jackson, General Manager George S. Howins. JUST DAVID
By ELEANOR H. PORTER
Author of "Pollyanna"

Ten year old David and his father (a famous violinist) lived on a mountain, with the woods, the wild things, and their two violins. Then a change came and David was left to the care of gruff farmer folk in whom the warmth of kindness was buried deep. But "Just David" brought music and sunshine into many lives and played a part in a very pretty romance.

DO NOT HESITATE TO CLAIM EXEMPTION

Washington, Sept. 25.—(Press) Mar that General Crowder again today, by formal statement, asked men registered under the selective service law who are now engaged in answering questions not to let motives of chivalry prevent them from claiming deferred classification if their occupation or the status of their dependents entitles them to do so. He said:

"It should be borne in mind by the individual registrant," said General Crowder, "that the military program of this country, built around the desires of all concerned to win victory for our cause as quickly as possible, demands of the selective system the utmost speed in classifying the 13,000,000 approximately who registered on Sept. 12. If all these 13,000,000 registrants were to decline to aid the boards by indicating their own attitude regarding deferment and were to rely entirely on the ability of the boards to perceive properly of making deferments the whole process of raising the army would be seriously hampered and delayed. This applies equally to those entitled to deferment on the ground of dependency and those on the ground of necessary occupational employment. Either the claim should be made by the registrant or by a competent third person in his behalf."

SHIP OWNERS AND FISHMEN SEEK SHIELD

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 24.—"Give us a suitable measure of protection and we will keep up the food fish supply so long as there is one vessel left afloat in the North Atlantic," is the answer of Gloucester ship owners and fishermen to the German submarine raid on portions of the North Atlantic fishing fleet in July and August.

If the enemy planned his descent on these helpless craft for its psychological effect, he certainly achieved his aim, but the effect was the opposite from what he sought. Instead of being intimidated by the sinking of many of their vessels, the salty mariners of Gloucester—and this is true of other parts as well—have set their teeth and by word and deed have shown their determination to continue "business as usual."

In the period covered by the raid, from July 22 to August 26, twenty-nine fishing vessels were sunk by the Germans, some by shellfire, others by bombs, and at least one, according to its captain, by a torpedo. A part of the fleet was sent to the bottom by the trawler Triumph, which was seized by a German submarine and provided with crew and armament. The fishing craft ranged in size from the tiny Hellene, of 19 tons, one of the swordfishermen sunk on the Georges Bank, to the Eric, of 600 tons, sent down south of the Island of Miquelon far to the northeast of New England waters. Most of them were of American registry, chiefly owned in Gloucester or Boston, but a few hailed from Canadian and Newfoundland ports, principally Lunenburg, N. S.

About one million pounds of fish, most of which had been caught by the tollsome methods of the hand-liner, or captured by the skillful harpoon of the swordfish hunter, was returned to the deep. The 29 vessels sunk were capable of an annual production of about six million pounds of fish.

Vessel owners here are hoping that maintaining the fishing fleet at the highest point of numbers and efficiency will be solved by the extension of aid by the federal war risk insurance bureau. Negotiations to this end are well under way.

Owners, masters and fishermen are gratified at the steps taken by the navy department to protect the fleet. Many of them, however, would like to have their craft armed, so that instead of being forced to stand by idly and watch the enemy sink their vessels, they could at least attempt to hit back in case of a submarine attack. Their point of view has been explained to the navy department, by Captain Clayton Morrissey of the beam trawler Walrus.

"Man my craft with guns and gunners," Captain Morrissey told the department, "or if this is impossible, tell me where I can buy guns of proper calibre and I will buy them myself, if only men can be furnished to find the range and fire the guns. I realize what is going on over there and I am willing to take a chance and do my share over here. They got me or I'll get them if I can get the armament."

SIX BILLIONS SET AS MINIMUM FOR NEW LOAN

New York, Sept. 25.—Six billion dollars is the minimum amount which the people of the United States are expected to subscribe for the fourth Liberty loan, according to an announcement by William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury in a stirring address here last night outlining the government's plan for the campaign which starts Saturday.

The share allotted the New York federal reserve district is $1,500,000, or 30 per cent of the greatest loan yet offered. The loan which will bear 1-4 per cent interest, will run for 20 years, maturing Oct. 15, 1933, unless the government should exercise its reserved right to redeem the bonds on or after Oct. 15, 1933.

The Chicago district quota is placed at 14 1-2 per cent and Cleveland at 10 per cent. Dallas, partly because of recent drought in the southwest, is asked for only 2 1-10 per cent. New England is asked for $500,000, 3 1-3 per cent.

In announcing the decision to postpone the opening, President H. D. Hetzel said: "The epidemic which has spread over the eastern section of the country has appeared in Durham. It seems desirable therefore, in the interest of protecting the health of the students, that the opening of college be postponed until conditions are improved. It will be opened at the earliest practicable date."

STEPS TAKEN TO HASTEN MAIL FOR SOLDIERS ACROSS

Many here who have sons across and who would like to be in closer communication with their overseas relatives will be glad to learn of conditions pending to better the mail service. If plans are successful the boys will get their mail in three weeks time.

According to the Associated Press Captain Frank E. Frazier, Assistant Director of the American Expeditionary Forces Postal Service in France, has returned to the United States to put into effect plans for expediting the delivery of American mail to the soldiers in France. He said today:

"With what has been done or is now being done to insure the prompt delivery of mail, there should be no occasion for delay or non-delivery of letters to our soldiers." In France if those writing them from home will realize that the slightest inaccuracy or obscurity in the address of a letter is almost certain to cause delay and may result in non-delivery.

One million letters arrive in France every day addressed to members of the American Expeditionary Forces, according to an estimate of the military postal authorities.

Steps taken to expedite mail from the United States to France, according to the statement, include: The turning over of complete military information as to the location of troops in France by the military authorities to the military and domestic postal officers; the issuance of orders sending mail on every ship destined for any port in France organized to receive mail; and the adoption of a scheme of designation for groups of unattached soldiers sent from the United States to replacement camps in France.

"A complete postal system corresponding to that in the United States is now in operation in France with a central post office located at Tours," the statement continues. "This service except the distribution and dispatch of mails to the United States, is entirely under military control."

In view of the duplication of names in the American Expeditionary Forces, the absence of any distinguishing designation for groups of casual or replacement men has been a source of difficulty in the delivery of mail. Thousands of soldiers are being sent to France every month from this country for replacement purposes. It is estimated that 300,000 letters a month were delayed from this cause. This delay in delivery will not occur under arrangements which have just been made to have each replacement unit of 250 men, as it leaves camp in the United States given a distinctive company number, which it will retain until it reaches a replacement camp in France. Every member of such unit will then be one of 250 men instead of one of one and half million men.

"The matter of the address to insure prompt delivery is of vital importance. The mis-spelling of a name or the use of initials where a word should be spelled out, may not only retard the delivery of a letter but may prevent its being delivered at all. Many thousands of letters are being constantly received which cannot be promptly delivered, if delivered at all, on account of the manner in which they are addressed."

"A letter for an American soldier in Europe should be so addressed as to show his rank, his full name including his middle name, his company or battery and his regiment, as well as the branch of service." A letter to "John Walter Smith, Jr., a private in the 10th Infantry, 1st Division, 1st Army Corps" to appear in the upper left hand corner of the envelope.

DECLARES HUNS ARE NOT HALF BEATEN YET

"In Heaven's name let no thought of an easy triumph or no security because of a petty partial success restrain the efforts of a single man for our side to win and put down forever the forces of arrogant pride and lust for domination which have robbed the earth of a whole generation of its best manhood."

Such is the message of Rev. M. J. Dwyer of Rome, ex-Assistant Attorney of Suffolk County, writer and churchman, to Hon. Joseph H. O'Neill, Rev. Fr. Dwyer's letter is as follows:

"All you write of the war is most interesting, but I confess both to surprise and alarm to read that there is even one human being in America who does not realize that we are at war. Good heavens, if there be really one such benighted individual in the United States of America, shake or pound him into the absolute conviction that we are not only at war, but that if the war is to be won we must win it."

"I say that with the fullest sense of what the words mean, with intimate knowledge of all our Allies are doing and have done, but with the further knowledge that it is up to America, fresh and limitless as to resources, to furnish the forces, human and material, to put the finishing touch to the whole ghastly, hellish business."

"The Huns are not half beaten yet. They are as arrogant, ruthless and cocksure as ever at heart, and with an ingenuity and skill that to me are uncanny. If not preternatural, they have many ways yet to come back at us, to prolong and complicate and peril the final result."

"It is openly said here by men of all the Allied Nations that America is the hope of victory and of the world. In Heaven's name, let no thought of an easy triumph or no security because of a petty partial success restrain the efforts of even a single man on our side to win and to put down forever the forces of arrogant pride and lust for domination which have robbed the earth of a whole generation of its best manhood. I didn't intend to say a word about war, but I stand astounded and stupefied and have to say something when one tells me that some of us do not realize we are at war."

FOUR DEATHS FROM INFLUENZA

There were four deaths from pneumonia resulting from influenza at the Naval Hospital on Tuesday, but no deaths were reported in this city.

There was, however, a great many cases, estimated by some as high as 1000 in this city and vicinity, or in the Portsmouth Health Zone. There are many very bad cases of pneumonia among them and the latter cases are on the increase. One local physician said that he had at least seventy-five cases of influenza and the other physicians have as many as they can possibly attend.

There are a number of cases among the school children and there are many more kept out of school on account of colds. Every precaution is being taken in the schools to prevent an epidemic.

TO GIVE SHOW FOR RED CROSS

At a meeting held at the Navy Yard on Tuesday afternoon plans were formed for a minstrel show to be given for the benefit of the Red Cross some time this fall. It will be given by the male and female members of the working force and there is a lot of fine talent and a big show is looked for.

The committee who will make the preliminary arrangements is an executive committee. Chairman John B. Hugelman, William Hillman, Jr., Arthur L. Hartford and Miss Eleanor Reich, Rehoboth will start shortly.

BOSTON DEATH LIST INCREASING

Boston, Sept. 24.—The Board of Health announced that there has been 51 deaths from influenza and 28 from pneumonia resulting from influenza reported to them up to 10.30 this evening. This is the largest list for any one day since the disease began its ravages. The Boston schools were all ordered closed this noon and will remain closed until next Monday at latest and possibly longer.

BADLY NEEDED FOR EMERGENCY HOSPITAL WORK

Here Is the Chance for You to Do Your Bit and Volunteer Your Services.

Nurses, trained, experienced, graduate or otherwise, are urgently needed at once at the Emergency Influenza Hospital opened Monday by the Health Department to care for persons suffering from Grippa or influenza and who have no suitable place in which they could be cared for. There are a large number in Portsmouth who have come here to work in the Navy Yard and in the ship yards. Many are lodged in rooming or boarding houses and when they are taken sick they have absolutely no one to care for them. Housing conditions here are lamentable. Many of the cases of influenza have occurred among these men and the hospital was opened in order that the best possible care could be given them.

POST TOASTIES

These men form part of our large industrial Army that is so vital in the winning of this war. Portsmouth should be proud to extend itself to these men when they are taken sick, and yet until this emergency hospital was opened they had no place to go.

The hospital will care for about 25 cases and more can be taken care of if necessary. The patients will be expected to pay actual expenses and retain their own physician but no one will be turned out.

In order to care for these patients at the hospital, nurses will be needed and the demand for nurses has been heavy. Miss Nora Rowell, a Red Cross public health nurse, on duty here volunteered to stay at the hospital Monday night as it was impossible to secure the services of any other nurse. Miss Elizabeth Murphy, the other Red Cross nurse, is ill with influenza and Dr. A. L. Stone, also attached to the local sanitary organization has been stricken with the malady. The Health Department is crippled and makes an appeal for help.

It is understood that a number of Portsmouth women have taken special training for home nursing. If this is true, there is now a golden opportunity for some or all of them to volunteer, their services immediately and assist the health authorities in caring for these unfortunate cases that must be given medical and nursing attention. Let them show their instill by offering their services now. Trained or graduate nurses are not necessary. Anyone who can take ordinary care of the sick can help. Miss Rowell will be able to remain on duty until Wednesday morning but it will be necessary to relieve her at that time.

In addition to nursing care, general house workers are needed, to cook for the patients and to do general cleaning work about the hospital including care of the laundry. A janitor is also needed. Fancy salaries can not be paid and should not be looked for in such an emergency. Some may object to serving in a hospital caring for influenza cases but if a Red Cross nurse can give this service anyone else should be glad of the opportunity. Influenza and pneumonia are much less dangerous than many other diseases and Red Cross nurses do not hesitate to go anywhere.

It is hoped that this appeal for help will reach those who have proclaimed their desire to "do their bit" and help win this war. They are needed. No better opportunity will offer itself in Portsmouth.

Applications or requests for information should go to Dr. Paul Probie of the U. S. Public Health Service at the City Hall, telephone number 533W.

Lessons in Practical Farming.

Interesting and cheering news comes from the onion fields in the Massachusetts part of the Connecticut valley, the crop being reported as very large. The acreage is not so great as last year, but the yield is better and it is estimated that there will be gathered from about 5,000 acres nearly 2,500,000 bushels of marketable onions which at present prices represent a vast amount of money to be distributed in a farming region.

And the news from these onion fields is interesting in another sense. It is interesting and instructive because it teaches or should teach the native Americans what can be done by hard work and steady application. The region in which these great onion fields are located was settled and occupied for many years by native New Englanders, who, it is regrettable to say, gradually lost their grip and have largely given way to foreigners. Not that there is anything to be said against the foreigners who have taken their places. It is altogether to their credit that they have been willing and able to take run-down farms and restore them to productivity through hard work and economical living.

The farms in question are now largely in the possession of Poles, who take kindly to the tillage of the soil and prefer the independent life of the farmer to the stuffy life of the mills in the industrial centers. Most of them began their industrial lives in the mills, but one after another has branched out with his small savings and acquired a foothold on the land, where for years they have been doing well, and are now doing better than ever before. They have improved their farms and brought them to a high state of productivity. They are living the lives of independent citizens and making money.

And how have they done all this? They have done it by practicing the same virtues that enabled the original settlers to thrive and prosper until, to say it in plain English, they got above their business. The sons and daughters of prosperous farmers did not like to harden their hands and soil their clothes with work on the land, so they went away to the cities and took positions in which they could wear good clothes, leaving the farms to the old folks until the latter were obliged to give way to the foreigners who are not afraid of work, and are not ashamed to live within their means.

The Poles and other foreigners who are now so largely in possession of one of the most desirable farming sections of Massachusetts are there by right. They have worked their passage and accumulated what they have got through industry and thrift, while the sons and daughters who inherited these possessions stand aside and look on in surprise, and offer as the only explanation of the momentous change, "We can't live as they do."

Agricultural colleges, speakers and writers are all right in their way and undoubtedly do much good, but those desiring real lessons in practical farming may well pay heed to the demonstrations given, not only in Massachusetts but in many other parts of New England and the country, by the simple folk who have come from other shores with a willingness and a capacity to show us how to do it.

With the city crowded as it is at the present time, and with the costs of labor and materials as high as they are, it is inevitable that rents should be affected by the general increase in the cost of living. But there should be no "profiteering." The thing to do is to determine what constitutes profiteering and to see to it that home seekers are not subjected to injustice. And this, and this only is what is to be done here.

Manchester has decided to open a liquor agency, having found that the prison has its uses in the hospitals and for general medicinal and scientific purposes. Will it be demonstrated in time that with "bone dryness," as with many other things, anticipation affords greater satisfaction than the reality?

A heavily loaded auto truck demonstrated a few days ago that some of the bridges in this vicinity are not equal to the demands of this modern form of transportation. Similar trouble has been experienced in other places and will continue until all bridges are brought up to the requirements of the times.

Provost Marshal General Crowder rules that men engaged in the collection of news and its transmission by wire are entitled to deferred classification in the draft. But why should this consideration be restricted to those who get their news to the publication offices "by wire"?

War contracts are now to be placed with the heads of prisons and reformatories, and the prisoners are to receive the regular scale of wages. For the men involved this beats "deferred classification" out of sight.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Tax Child Labor Products

(From the Boston Traveler)
Those persons who "chortled with glee" when the decision of the supreme court invalidated the child labor law may yet be plunged into gloom if the friends of the children in the Senate and House get their way.

The present plan is to place a heavy tax on all products of child labor. Let us hope in placing these taxes Congress will go the limit. As a matter of fact the tax should be so high no employer will dare go so far as to entertain the idea of employing children.

It has been said repeatedly there is no wisdom in grinding up one's seed corn. Yet that is just what is done when children are put into industry during those years when they should be going to school and enjoying themselves playing out of doors.

T. M. Osborne Maker of Men

(From the Boston Traveler)
The announcement of an entirely new plan for intensive military training of about 400,000 prisoners now confined in the jails of the country for work essential in the conduct of the war should gladden the hearts of all who have interested themselves in prison reform.

Local pride offers a bit because of the fact that this plan was formulated by Commissioner Burdette G. Lewis of New Jersey, instead of by a Massachusetts man. The war department approves of the plan and will assist in giving the prisoners a chance to work and to fight for their country.

This commonsense idea is a natural result of the fight waged against antiquated prison practices by Thomas Mott Osborne, formerly warden at Sing Sing, now lieutenant commander at the Portsmouth naval prison. Osborne has always believed that there is enough good in even the worst men to save them. All he wanted in dealing with those men was the chance to give the goodness in them a chance to grow. He knows by developing the good the bad will be driven out automatically.

One of the greatest crimes against so-called criminals is our barbarous system of denying them the opportunity to express themselves in productive labor. To lock men behind steel bars and to deny them the right to use their muscles and brains in useful work is to send them down the greased chute that leads to Casanova. Under such a system even the best man would become bad.

Thomas Mott Osborne believes with Emerson "The greatest enterprise in the world for splendor, for extent, is the upbuilding of a man."

He is putting this into practice at Portsmouth and is obtaining results so much more satisfactory than were obtained under the old hellish system of treating the men like dangerous enemies of society, which few men are, that there is no comparison between the new and the old.

He would be the first to urge that many of the men now in jail be given the opportunity to do what New Jersey suggests.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

They Should Do Their Bit

Editor Herald:
The appeal for nurses of any description to help care for the many sick people made by the Board of Health should be answered by the services of the members of several women's clubs who recently were members of Red Cross classes in this city taking 15 or more lessons on emergency work especially home nursing. These women are now expected to do something as the course they took was just for such conditions that are found at present in Portsmouth.
Now is the time for them to "do their bit" and help the sick which the Red Cross and the people expect of them until the local authorities can secure the necessary nurses.

GREATER PORTSMOUTH'S BEST FAIR

Next Tuesday, Oct. 1st, the big fair under the management of the Rockingham County Fair Association, opens at Rockingham Park, to where for three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday "all roads will lead." The management positively declare that this, their "fourth annual," will eclipse in each and every feature their previous efforts in this line and that every anticipation of those who attend will be realized to the fullest extent, and with that object in view, more energy has been used, more thought given, and more money will be expended for amusement features than ever before. It is the aim of the promoters of this annual fair to make it bigger and better each succeeding year, to the end that it will become New Hampshire's biggest and best event of its kind, and one not to be missed in all New England. The racing events, from the number and character of the entries now booked are sure to be better and more stuporously contested than ever, and lovers of this sport "the sport of kings," will be royally entertained. The department of Exhibits will be notable in the extreme for the immense showing of farm, garden and orchard products, its "live stock" display, and its beautiful and bountiful exhibit of "fancy work," while the "merry midway" with its fakers, jesters, fortune tellers, vaudevillians, acrobats, gymnasts, games and sports will be one long, alluring avenue of attraction and amusement.

CROSTON WELL KNOWN HERE

Paris, Sept. 25.—To Francis Croston of Haverhill, Mass., goes the honor of having headed the first Knights of Columbus mobile field kitchen to the front. He was the driver of the truck employed to take the kitchen and its crew of four K. of C. secretaries near the "big show." He returned to Paris this week with interesting tales of his experiences. He says the kitchen is making a hit with the boys, providing hot chocolate and soup for the men as they come in from fighting. With each kitchen is provided 100,000 cigarettes, large quantities of crackers and tobacco. All this is furnished without charge to the men. The kitchen is supplied every week by motor truck from Paris. George F. Heardon, Haverhill, Mass., former representative and a member of the Massachusetts State Democratic committee, has arrived in Paris to work for the K. of C.

OBSEQUIES

Philip Joseph McWilliams, Hundreds of sorrowing friends especially among the young people, were at the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Tuesday morning when the funeral services were held for the late Philip Joseph McWilliams, bright little son of Philip T. and the late Mary M. McWilliams. The death of this 13 year old child has caused keen sorrow in every quarter in the city where the lad was known. He was a genuine favorite among his playmates who gathered in large numbers at the last sad rites on Tuesday. Rev. John P. Moran offered high mass of requiem and conducted the services following the mass the musical portion of which was rendered by members of the senior choir. The floral tributes completely covered the little casket and were mute testimonials of love and esteem for the deceased. The interment was in Calvary cemetery with the following school and playmates acting as pall bearers.

Clifford Gillan, John Flynn, Paul Kirvan, Timothy Hennessy, Bernard Pahlis, Earl Champagne, Dennis Shea and George Flanagan. Bill, the pet pony of the dead child, harnessed in his cart, was among the mourners, and walked behind the hearse from the home to the church. The animal, a daily companion of the boy, seemed to realize the passing of his best friend. The funeral arrangements were in charge of funeral director W. P. Miskell.

MUST HAVE NO PUBLIC FUNERALS

Only Immediate Families Can Attend Services and Burial of Dead.

Orders were issued today to the several undertakers and the public forbidding any more public funerals until the epidemic of influenza is checked. Only the immediate families of the deceased will be allowed to attend the services and interment for the dead until further notice. This action was found absolutely necessary owing to the increase of the malady.

KAISER DECLARES AMERICA BE GIVEN ANSWER

London, Sept. 25.—In an address to Austrian officers at Brley, near Metz Tuesday, Emperor William recalled to them that they had before them on this front the Americans who he said had promised France to give her Alsace-Lorraine, and who wished to "add big deeds to their big words." He assured the Austrians of his confidence that, with the help of the German forces, the Americans would be given "the right answer at the right moment."

WILL YOU HELP PROVIDE A GAS MASK?

The Gas Defense Division of the United States Army has asked the Red Cross to take charge of the collection of peach and other fruit stones, which are greatly needed in the making of gas masks for the boys over there.

The Red Cross has accepted the additional work and every chapter in the country will assume charge of the work from now on. The Portsmouth Chapter will have charge of the district embraced in the Chapter district and Chairman Taylor has appointed Charles A. Allen and R. D. McDonough as the committee and they will shortly arrange for collection places about the city where the dried stones may be left.

In addition to peach stones the Gas Defense Division want collected the following fruit and nut stones, claiming that all are equally good and that unless this campaign is a success there will be a shortage of gas masks for the army and all of the workers, physicians, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., K. of C. and Salvation Army workers for all must be equipped before they can approach the front.

Save these: Peach stones, apricot pits, plum pits, olive pits, date seeds, cherry pits, butternut shells, Brazil nut shells and hickory nut shells. Special attention is called to the plum pits which are a universal germicide and used by the Red Cross. The Defense Division urges everybody to do their share to give at least one man a gas mask.

Later on places will be designated where the dried stones may be left, and every important is urged to assist in this great campaign. At first the campaign was not considered of special importance, but as the Gas Defense Division realized the amount of carbon needed for each mask and the great number of masks that will be required for the American army, which is going to win this world's war and forever eliminate the Hun as a world power, they have urged that the campaign be made paramount to many of the other war activities.

This is the time when preserving is at its height and every stone should be saved while as the fall crop of hickory nuts and other nuts wanted appear, the school children and Boy Scouts will be urged to collect these nuts and turn them in, or at least save the shells of all nuts.

HE HAD NOT REGISTERED

Mannet Mental, employed at the Chemical Plant, was arrested on Tuesday evening on suspicion of having taken a watch from a fellow workman. At the police station it developed that he had not registered in the last draft, although workmen claimed that he has been showing a card which he claimed was his. At the station he admitted that he had not registered. He will be turned over to the Federal authorities.

DON'T FORGET THE BELGIAN RELIEF TODAY

Have you picked up the old clothing for the Belgian poor and sent it to the Court House on Court street? Don't forget that there is a cold winter coming and even if there is an epidemic here there is clothing enough to keep everybody warm, whereas the Belgians lack clothing as much an epidemic would mean more deaths in this already ravaged country. Old clothes of any description will be accepted. The Old Court House is open from 2 to 5 o'clock this afternoon.

BRITISH DESTROYING TURKISH ARMY

(By Associated Press)

In both Macedonia and Palestine the Entente allies are giving the Teutonic allies a bad beating and no rest, while in France the British and French continue to draw the net closer about St. Quentin and to smash the Hindenburg line.

In Macedonia the situation of the Bulgarians and Germans is daily growing more critical, as the Allies steadily drive them back.

In Turkey the latest news of the British and the friendly Arab tribes certainly forecast the complete destruction of the Ottoman army on both sides of the Jordan river. In Palestine the British have taken the coast city of Haifa and Acre, while east of the Jordan the Turks in full retreat are hard pressed by the British and the tribesmen cavalry, while his constantly keeping on the heels of the fleeing Turks. Inside of the big sack, the neck of which was sewed up by the British in their initial offensive, many more prisoners have been taken and now greatly exceeds the official count of 25,000.

At St. Quentin the latest advance of the British and French has all but enveloped the city and to the north the strong line of defense about the city of Cambrai is being smashed.

All along the 100-mile front in Macedonia, from Monastir to Lake Doiran the entire Entente allies forces are pressing forward with ever increasing speed against the Germans and Bulgarians and despite the reinforcements they have nowhere been able to gather themselves long enough to turn and make any counter attacks. Nowhere are the Entente allies allowing their forces to lose contact with the retreating enemy.

So badly has the 100-mile front been smashed that dire calamity faces the Bulgarians and Germans unless they can quicken their retreat and show greater speed in evading the encircling wings of the Entente allies.

To the west of St. Quentin on a front of four miles along the Ourcq river, the British materially added to their ground about St. Quentin and have taken 800 more prisoners. Hard fighting is going on about Senones, a scant two miles from the city, and around Epigny and further north about Cambrai the Hindenburg line is being battered. In Flanders the British have made gains about Ypres.

That the Germans fear the continuance of the American advance in Lorraine, is evident from the fact that they have kept up a continuous bombardment of the American lines.

In an address before the Reichstag the German Imperial Chancellor Count Von Hertling admitted that there was deep public discontent, but asserted that if it was due to military reverses it was not justified. He said that while the situation was grave, it was not critical and with the peace made with Russia and Rumania, a considerable force of the Germans could be transferred to the western front.

THIS IS A FINE SPIRIT

The Outside Machinists at the Navy Yard have shown the right spirit in the present epidemic. They have a fund of several hundred dollars they have secured and a representative on Tuesday came to a local physician and asked where they could use the money to the best advantage to help out.

They were referred to Dr. Preble of the Public Health Service with the suggestion that the money could be well expended for additional nurses in the city for the new emergency hospital or for nurses that could go about making calls and attending patients. There is little doubt but what the fund will be used and there never was a time when it could be used to better advantage.

ALCOHOLISM
ON THE WANE
IN ENGLAND

London, Sept. 24.—Drunkardness and deaths from alcoholism in the United Kingdom show a decline ranging from 65 to 80 percent, since the war regulations against drinking were instituted by the government three years ago, according to Lord D'Abernon, chairman of the Liquor Control Board.

Abolition of the custom of "treating" and drinking on an empty stomach and the virtual extinction of the saloon bar, were the main factors contributing to the growing tendency to national temperance, Lord D'Abernon told The Associated Press.

"The lines on which we have proceeded," he continued, "are to a large extent novel and they have succeeded beyond expectation. Nor is there any evidence of growth of the drug habit, which is usually one of the consequences of too drastic interference with facilities for obtaining liquor."

SANDFORD IN HUNT FOR CHILD

Bladeford, Me., Sept. 24.—Elijah Sandford, head of the Holy Ghost and Us Society colony at Durham, started off early today in his automobile in a renewed hunt for his daughter, Deborah, who has been missing from the colony for 10 days. He declared he would search every inch of Maine before he finished.

Deborah, who left home shortly before her father returned from his seven-year term in the federal prison in Atlanta, declared before leaving home that she would throw herself into the river before she would return.

It is the belief of many persons in this section that Deborah went to Lewiston and is being hidden by her sister, Marguerite, who also ran away. Search by the father has, however, failed to bring any inkling of her movements after she left the colony. This is the third member of the family now away from home. John, who during Sandford's imprisonment, was the head of the colony, now being in training at Camp Devens.

GOV. LOOKING FOR SLACKERS

Washington, Sept. 23.—The nation's war industries are to be combed for slackers under new regulations being worked out by Marshal-General Crowder, according to the testimony of Charles Plez, vice-president of the emergency fleet corporation, before the Senate-commerce committee today.

The alleged slackers are of two kinds—those who have obtained employment in essential industries merely to escape the draft, and those who, having obtained such employment, shirk their duty and impair to that extent the efficiency of the industry.

Mr. Plez referred specifically to ship yards, but left no doubt in the minds of the committee that the weeding out of slackers in process there is to be paralleled in all other war industries. The military slackers will be reached by an examination of their claims to exemption or deferred classification other than their employment in essential work.

Industrial slackers will be reached by a regulation providing that any man employed in war work and having obtained deferred classification on that ground, shall lose his exemption if he absents himself from his work more than three days a month without sufficient reason such as personal illness, or the like.

Mr. Plez disclosed the fact that this regulation has been prepared in discussing reported slackers at the Hog Island shipyard at Philadelphia. Reports had come to committee members that of the 60,000 exempted workmen there, thousands were alleged to be slackers, who sought refuge in the shipyard from the selective draft.

The Emergency Fleet Corporation, in co-operation with draft authorities, will sift all charges of slackness and if they are well founded, will at once dismiss the slackers who will then be put into the army, said Mr. Plez.

"I feel certain we will take care of that situation without any trouble," said he.

The committee had been told that pugilists, barbers, actors, ball players and others engaged in non-essential tasks had flocked to the Hog Island yard, and had obtained such employment as their total lack of knowledge of shipbuilding would permit them to perform. But some of them, the committee was informed, did not labor honestly at the tasks assigned to them but devoted most of their time to obtaining similar "soft jobs" for their friends and associates. It is to these the new order regarding absence from work will apply particularly.

"We must protect the men who are honestly engaged in war work against such slackers," said Senator Fletcher, chairman of the committee. "Not only the shipyards, but other essential industries today employ many unskilled, inexperienced men who are earnestly giving their best to the government. They must be protected against those who come in and use their experience and lack of skill as an excuse to defraud the government and escape military service."

Mr. Plez repeated to the committee a statement he has several times made recently to the effect that the Hog Island yard will do work to construct 20 of the 48 ships in its program for this year.

"They will never accomplish what they hope," said Mr. Plez, referring to 48 ships, but with their labor problems and having my estimate on experience with other yards, I will be satisfied if they produce 20 this year."

He said great difficulty is being experienced in obtaining skilled men to install machinery in the hulls.

JUST LOOK AT MY Beautiful Rug

It came from Margeson Brothers, and do you know I paid exactly nineteen dollars less for it than for the one I priced in New York, which was the identical make and pattern.

"Oh, yes, I know there is a reason, but it isn't what you think it is, not altogether. Of course Margeson Brothers don't have high rents and all that sort of thing and do sell at remarkably low prices, but they told me the other day that they bought a lot of fine rugs last fall for spring and summer delivery, and that the prices have gone up like a rocket since then.

"Have they living-room furniture? Well, I should say they have! Furniture for every room in the house! Haven't you ever been to that store? Well, of all things! And yet you claim to be up to date! I'll take you down there any day."

STOLE DOCTOR'S AUTOMOBILE

Abandon Car on Rockland Street After a Trip to Haverhill and Back.

On Tuesday evening the automobile of Dr. C. W. Hamanford was stolen from State street in front of a house where this physician was attending a patient. Dr. Hamanford had been in the home but a short time and reported the missing car to the police at once.

The officers later found the car on Rockland street where it had been left by either joy riders or booze party who likely made a trip to Haverhill. The car had been run a little over 80 miles and was not damaged in any way.

MIX-UP OVER LOST LAUNDRY CHECK

Chin Lee Does a Marathon on Congress Street and Wins Out.

Chin Lee, chief in charge of a washing emporium at the corner of Bridge and Islington streets, is some marathon artist especially when he is on a chase for money due for work performed by his squad.

The marathon might have gone further but the police checked the speed of the runners at the corner of Congress and Vaughan streets.

It's the same old story, "No check, no wash."

A young man says the Chinaman was wrong, and Chin says he's right. Patrolman Ellingwood was referee. The officer held up the man and the Chinman as they came speeding down Congress street with Lee a close second to the man with a bundle under his arm.

The whole outfit went back to the mart for a conference in which the Chinaman held his own. It certainly was some mixed up affair, but the egg cleared it up.

The man with the bundle of shirts claimed that he had laundry in Chin's place for four weeks and that he lost the check and had pleaded with the Chinaman to give him his property. Chin says he pulled over the packages with the red, blue, pink and yellow tags but could not find anything on record or on the shelves that belonged to the man who held a check for washing left there last week.

Angered at the Chinaman not finding the old laundry he refused to pay 17 cents for other bundles and beat it down the street.

During the argument that followed the Chinaman stuck to his claim that the man was a bunk. All he wanted was 17 cents for the laundry under the man's arm and he got it. The man says Chin is fresh and Chin says he's no good.

GRIP INCREASES DEMAND FOR AID

Owing to the gripe epidemic there is a great demand of the Red Cross for pajamas for men in the service. Dr. Kimball of Boston sent word Tuesday to the local Red Cross to send as many pairs of pajamas possible to the Red Cross supply house in Boston at once. Two hundred pairs were shipped yesterday from here and the local branch of the Red Cross has also about seven dozen pairs to be made. This is the work to be done at the sewing meeting of the Red Cross at the Elks' Home on Thursday.

The committee in charge urges people to come to the Red Cross work rooms tomorrow and aid in getting these garments made for our boys who are ill in the camps. Here is a chance to again show your patriotism and aid in this work of making warm garments for the sick. The committee asks that you will not only come your self and work in this way for the sick but that you will invite some one else to come with you to get these warm garments finished.

THE HERALD HEARS

That the clocks will be set back on the morning of Oct. 27.

That we have 33 more days of daylight saving.

That James Dawning, one of the draftees from this city in the National Army, has been discharged.

That he was assigned to Camp Devens and his discharge is due to disability.

That the frost has hit the war gardens hard.

That the latest among the women in the South is rings made of smokeless powder made at the government plant at Hatfield's Bend.

That the girls at Nashville wore the first to adopt the new fad.

That it might be dangerous down there to hold hands.

That one little squeeze might cause an explosion.

That even this will hardly keep the boys away and they are ready to take a chance any time, rings or no rings.

That the new foreman in the street department, Samuel Curll, is making good.

That the gripe is getting a good grip on Portsmouth.

That the doctor who gets a meal a day and his clothes off at night is a busy man just now.

That the New England Telephone Company must be hooverizing on paper, etc.

That the list of subscribers of the Dover Exchange has been cut from the book issued in this city.

That this is a big disappointment to the Portsmouth subscribers and is causing no small amount of inconvenience and protest.

STRICT QUARANTINE AT ATLANTIC

Gloucester, Mass., is hard hit by the influenza epidemic and the conditions there are serious. The physicians of the city are working hard to stamp out the disease and the city called on Haverhill, Mass., for assistance. One prominent physician of Gloucester visited 120 patients on Saturday and had little sleep all the past week, owing to the many calls from gripe victims.
